Jed Stone

D G (Repeat)

      G      D          G     D                    Bm              G       A     D
Born to the road Fire under his skin They'd say, Slow down Jed it's time to settle in
      G       D             G       D              Bm                  G          A     D
Heroes were gone And the whiskey wore thin Jed killed a man and he never came home again

D/C#   Bm            G             D           D/C#
And he'd say, every day the river grows higher, and
Bm           G           D             D/C#
I can feel the wind blow harder, and Bm           G           D
each night the fire burns stronger,
        G         F#m    Em            F#m    G    A
but the night will always know, that I'm just another soul.

D G (Repeat)

     G       D              G      D                  Bm              G          A     D
The people looked on, as the devil snuck through. They saw some things a man could never do.
     G       D          G       D                  Bm              G          A     D
And Jed was sworn to a hillside angel, he said he killed a man and made him let her go.

CHORUS

                G              Bm           F#m   G           Bm  F#m
Come on Jed Stone you can rest your sad bones, down by the riverside.
G                          F#m                  Bm   G          F#m          G             D
When you are afraid just close your eyes and drift away. I'll be waiting just the same, just the same.

JAM over D G

     G       D              G       D            Bm                  G          A       D
Born to the road, nowhere left to begin. Just to drift his eyes in the face of the southern wind.

                G              Bm           F#m   G           Bm  F#m
Come on Jed Stone you can rest your sad bones, down by the riverside.
G                          F#m                  Bm   G
When you are afraid just close your eyes and drift away.

                G              Bm           F#m   G           Bm  F#m
Come on Jed Stone you can rest your sad bones, down by the riverside.
G                          F#m                  Bm   G
When you are afraid just close your eyes and drift away.

                G              Bm           F#m   G           Bm  F#m
Come on Jed Stone you can rest your sad bones, down by the riverside.
G                          F#m                  Bm   G          F#m          G             D
When you are afraid just close your eyes and drift away. I'll be waiting just the same, just the same.
